

The first column carries the early results. Each figure keeps a stable reference.

Observers compare the northern samples. The ledger records clear totals.

The second column continues the analysis. Reviewers confirm each measurement.

Final notes close the section. The appendix lists every source.